Christine,

We have just finished a call with One Nation. They were very appreciative of our proactive communique sent Saturday evening.

One Nation do not hold Australia Post responsible for the failed delivery to the residents homes, in fact quite the opposite. They were very appreciative of our diligent attempts to deliver.

They are concerned about media leaks and are eager to have the articles back in their possession as soon as can be reasonably achieved.

The account team will make arrangements for the return of articles, at their cost, once One Nation's internal team have finished working with AFP to fully understand all the circumstances.

At this juncture, I do not anticipate anything further from One Nation. Naturally I will keep you immediately updated should that change.

Kindest regards,

s 47

Will you let me know when you hear anything back from One Nation, post the letter you sent yesterday re their parcel mailing to the Tower in Melbourne.

Thank you

Christine
